

IELTS WRITING TASK 2

Looking after Children

Q-These days more fathers stay at home and take care of their children while mothers go out to work.

What could be the reasons for this? Is it a positive or negative development?

It is becoming more common for fathers to be primary caregivers while their wives pursue their careers. This, I believe, is due to a societal shift in gender relations, which is a positive development.

Modern gender relations are the most apparent cause of more women in the workplace. In the 1950s, women's undisputed role in the United States was cooking, cleaning, and caring for the children. Then, in the 1960s, many progressive women began to believe that they were more than their biological prerogative, and feminist movements arose. Years of struggle have passed, and the wage disparity remains a contentious issue. Still, most rational adults now agree that both men and women should have equal opportunities to pursue a career.

In conclusion, the advent of women in the workforce has brought great benefits. The pertinent question is how quickly all parts of the world will adopt these progressive improvements.
