

IELTS WRITING TASK 2

Q-Fashion trends are difficult to follow these days, and it's widely believed that they primarily exist to sell clothes. As a result, some people believe that we shouldn't follow them and dress what we like and feel comfortable with.

-To what extent do you agree or disagree with this opinion?.

Model Answer:

In today's materialistic world, it's widely assumed that the most innovative fashion trends are significant. On the other hand, such movements are thought to be orchestrated solely to maximize profits for large designer firms. People appear to be changing their minds about wearing clothes for comfort and a personal choice in recent times. I agree that we should focus more on individuality and comfort in our clothing.

For starters, fashion designs exist as a form of the designer's creative artistic expression. Although this may be true, such strategies unquestionably erode individuality once a trend is established. This means that wearing what everyone else is wearing isn't particularly distinctive. t color and design in summer skirts, do we not look the same?

Second, fashion trends can appear extremely fashionable to the general public. However, it can be argued that the primary reason for wearing clothes is more practical. This is primarily because clothes were traditionally worn to protect people from adverse weather conditions. Clothing, for example, is still worn to keep people warm and dry in the winter and cool in the summer.

Finally, fashion gives us a sense of self-esteem and pride in our appearance. While this is undeniably a good point, it also implies that following such volatile trends can be costly. Buying every new season's fashion item, for example, will, of course, blow many young people's budgets.

Finally, various arguments, including not conforming, comfort, and price, support the dismissal of fashion trends, which I strongly agree with.
